

The Intersection of Medical Marijuana and Employment Law

The Nebraska Lawyer
September/October

As the number of states that have legalized the use of medical marijuana expands, employers are having to grapple with how they will address the questions that are likely to arise from the potential medical and/or recreational drug use by their employees. Read the article below to learn what you need to know.

ATTORNEYS

John C. Dunn

PRACTICE AREAS

Employment and Labor